DMS 204: Sectional Anatomy

This course is a study in gross and sectional anatomy and physiology of the human body and the correlation of that anatomy to sonographic, computed tomography and magnetic resonance images. Upon completion students will be able to identify normal sectional anatomy.

Credits: 2
Lab Hours: 0
Lecture Hours: 2
Prerequisites: As required by program
Program: Diagnostic Medical Sonography
Semester Offered: Fall